

University Hospital of South Manchester Education centre

What is it?

A training day on airway management in patients on the intensive care unit. It aims to provide candidates with the skills to confidently undertake their role in managing the airway on the intensive care, including difficult airways and can't intubate, can't ventilate situations.

What does it involve?

e-learning	=	the theory
practical stations	=	the equipment
interactive discussions	=	the human factors
simulated scenarios	=	putting it together!

Who is it for?

Nurses and doctors* who work with intensive care patients

When is it running?

8th June 2016
3rd October 2016
2nd March 2017

*For doctors there is a course prerequisite that the initial assessment of anaesthetic competencies have been completed

If you wish to attend please e-mail your name, hospital and job title to rct@doctors.org.uk

The study day is free

Places are limited

